

Summer Experiences

Week 6 – A day of friendship

Welcome to Week 6 of the DDAT Summer Experiences Pack. The final theme is 'A day of friendship.'

- You have made it to the final week. Well done! This is an important week thinking about friendship. We will be returning back to school to see old friends and maybe make new friends. So, let's enjoy this week completing friendship activities that you may want to do with your friends when you are back at school.
- This is your final week of completing 6 activities and emailing your evidence of completing them to DDAT.summer.experience@ddat.org.uk Once all 6 activities have been received, you will receive your final virtual 'friendship' badge. If you have completed and received all 6 virtual badges, you will receive your DDAT Summer Experiences certificate. Even more exciting, when you return back to school, you will receive your metal DDAT pin badge.
- For the final time, you can choose 6 activities from the challenges listed according to age.

Red challenge is aimed at Nursery and Reception children.

Green challenge is for Years 1, 2 and 3.

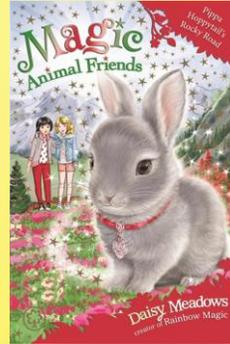

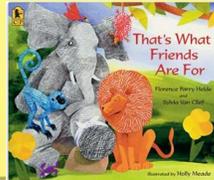

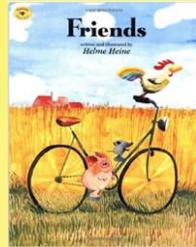

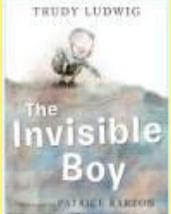

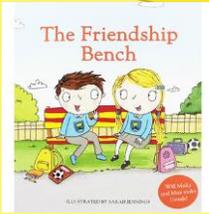

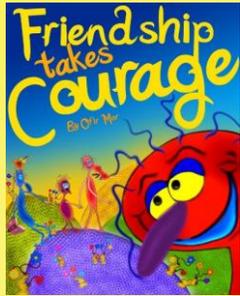

Blue challenge is for Years 4, 5 and 6.

Black challenges are for everyone to try. Year 6, as you know by now, you must do blue challenges (and black of course).

Good luck in your final week and we hope you have lots of fun!

Read a book about friends:

Maths Brainteaser:

A WHO HAS THE MOST SHELLS?

Three friends have all been collecting shells. Bree has twice as many as Dylan. Ashley has one more than Bree. Dylan has 12 shells. List the three friends in order from who has the least shells to who has the most. How many does each person have?

Read some of the funny poems about friends and

School in Please Mrs Butler by Allan Ahlberg

If you made a club for you and your friends- what would you call yourselves?

Think of 5 different names. Which one makes you laugh the most?

Plan a tea party for 6 friends

Ask an adult to help you decorate some biscuits using icing sugar and sweeties that your friends would like to eat. The crazier, the better!

Ask an adult to help you to make some fruity mocktails for your friends. Have fun testing which tastes best.

Ask an adult to help you make some 'friendly pizzas' with toppings that your friends will love.

A Day of.... Friendship

Find a stone small enough to fit in a pocket. Paint or use coloured pens to write a message and draw a design for a friend to keep.

Waterproof your design with clear nail polish to protect it.

Aesop was a Greek story teller who wrote a collection of stories. Most of the characters are animals but they have human characteristics. Each story teaches us a hidden lesson about how we can behave towards others in life.

Read the story of the Lion and the Mouse who, although they were very different sizes, became friends and helped each other out.

Search online to read or watch the story. Discuss the hidden meaning www.bbc.co.uk/teach/school-radio/audio-stories-lion-and-the-mouse

Draw a picture of the mouse helping the lion to escape.

Write up a recipe for FRIENDSHIP.

-First add a sprinkle of smiles

-Next add 10 g of laughter...

Look in a real recipe book to see how they are set out.

Write an acrostic poem about FRIENDSHIP or FRIENDS. Can you make it rhyme? Can you include some challenging new words to describe a friend?

Draw a friendship tree for you and all your friends.

Fill it with messages about how to be a good friend.

Coronavirus: Gap year tales – the power of friendship

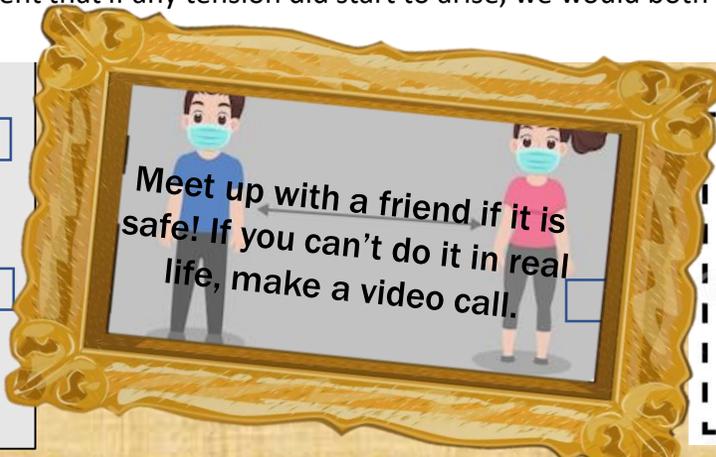

From travelling together I abroad – a true test of friendship.

India and Hattie have been friends for over 10 years. At the beginning of March, they set off on their dream trip around Asia. They planned to visit countries like Vietnam, Thailand and Indonesia. They managed a few weeks travelling in India, before the country's Prime Minister announced a coronavirus lockdown. Isolated and homesick, both girls say it is their friendship that has got them through. "I knew going into this trip that Hattie and I were in a solid friendship. We already had a good understanding of each other's habits and tendencies. We had worked hard saving up, and spent months planning this trip. As we set off, we felt extremely excited about the experience," says India. "Our trip started off as we'd planned. We visited Goa, Jaipur in Rajasthan and then India's family in the Punjab. We stayed with them for a few days in a small city called Goraya. We had then planned to fly to Vietnam but it suddenly closed its borders, so we changed our plans to fly to Thailand instead. On the day we were due to leave, the Prime Minister of India introduced a 3 week lockdown," explains Hattie. "We only had four hours' notice of the lockdown, so we were stuck. On the second day though we managed to move from the city to a village called Dhesian Sang. I have distant relatives here, so we are staying with my Grandma's brother and his family. Initially we just felt an overwhelming sense of shock. We cried a lot." says India. "On the days where I have felt anxious or worried, it helps knowing I am not alone. My best friend is sitting here next to me, feeling the same things that I am. Hattie and I spend about 95% of our day in the same room. If we were to have a fallout it would make the experience completely unbearable. I am happy to say we are still going strong. I feel confident that if any tension did start to arise, we would both get it squashed pretty promptly."

Draw your best friend. Tell an adult why they are your best friend.

Which friend would you most like to be stuck abroad with? Why?

Imagine you were stuck abroad with a friend. What would be difficult? What would be good? How would you solve problems?
